Flight of Mrs. Katie Schubert.

STAR WITNESS REALLY GONE.

that His Men Saw Her Off.

Katle Schubert, the most sensational of the accusers of the police captains and ward men, has really escaped this time. She sailed for Germany yester-day on the Hamburg-American line steamship Normannia 'rom Hoboken, She is now safe from punishment for her alleged perjuries on the trials of Capts. Devery and Cross, and she can never be called to testify against in-spector William McLaughlin.

Mrs. Schubert is the only disorderly house keeper who has testified to direct house keeper who has testified to direct dealings with the police captains. She testified that she paid $500 each to Capts. Devery, Cross and McLaughlin, those of the contents coming in turn to her house, 14th Chrystie street, to collect the money. Mr. Wellman said this morning:

1 got word at 4.25 o'clock last evening from the men I had engaged to watch airs. Schubert that she was prepared to said on the Normandie, of the Fernich line. I sent that word immediately to Inspector McLaughlin, and he said a detective set out immediately to insat her off.

and a detective set out immediately to be at her off.

Soul on arriving at the French line ter, at Tenth street, they learned that a Normandie did not sail till Saturday. Then they hurried on to Hoboken, but got there too late for the Normannia had already sailed.

Inspector McLaughlin would have detained her, drit or no writ.

"Now, I want to say that the person who is responsible for Mrs. Schubert's escape is not a police officer nor a man from my office, but is the very man who procured most of the witnesses and testimony before the Lexow Committee.

and testimony before the Lexow Committee.

"He was Mr. Goff's best man, and I am not responsible in any way.

"Only Wednesday night I paid the board of Mrs. Schubert and her husband, and they were perfectly cheerful then, and agreed to be on hand whenever I should need them."

The fact is, Mrs. Schubert drew her bank accounts Thursday of last week, sold her furniture Saturday and disappeared from New York City. "The Evening World" said then that she would never appear in New York again. It is a fact, however, that late yesterday afternoon, after the close of the police trials, a man rushed up to Police Headquarters and handed a card to Mr. Wellman. The card read: "Normandie, 5 o'clock."

Wellman immediately rushed to Supt. Byrnes's office, but that official had gone home for the day. It was then 4.50 e'clock. Wellman then sought Inspector McLaughlin.

The Inspector and Detective-Sergt. Clarke hurried out of Police Headquart.

of New York State. and the Police Commissioners could not compel her to cross the river to New York again. Neither could any court force her to return as a witness. The only way to force her to return would be to indict her, and Mr. Wellman would not be likely to ask the District-Attorney to indict his own witness for perjury.

Mrs. Schubert registered at Meyer's Hotel, Hoboken, six days ago as Mrs. Smith. At that time she was accompanied by a man said to be her husband, who also registered as C. Smith, and another person, who is supposed to have another person, who is supposed to have been Assistant District Attorney Wellman.

"I think it was Mr. Wellman who brought Mr. and Mrs. Smith here." said one of the hotel attaches this morning. "I remarked at the time that he did not seem to be in the same social class as the men and woman who he said were friend: of his. He appeared to be a gentleman of refinement while Mr. and Mrs. Smith looked particularly coarse. The man was boorish to a degree and chardly could write his name.

"I have supposed that since then the man who introduced them here was Mr. Wellman or some one from the District-Attorney's office."

Mr. and Mrs. Schubert are believed to have sailed on the Normannia under the names of Mr. and Mrs. M. Adier. For Mr. and Mrs. Adier tickets for a passage on the Normannia were purchased at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Agent Charles Noike. of 18 Bowery. Mr. Noike

Mr. Goff Tairly barricaded himself to-day against reporters. He closed the door of his private office, in the Shoe and Leather Building, corner of Broadway and Chambers street, and left word with his clerks not to allow him to be disturbed under any circumstances. Not withstanding this inhibition, an "Evening World" reporter succeeded in getting the following note in to Mr. Goff:

the following note in to Mr. Goff:

From the article sent herewith, you will see that Mr. Wellman shifts the blame for Mrs. Schubert's disappearance from his to your shoulders. What is there in it: Will you kindly make a statement for publication?

The "article" referred to in the foregoing note was a "proof" of "The Evening World's" account to-day of the interview with Mr. Wellman.

he is wholly mistaken when he attributes Mrs. Schubert's departure to Mr. Goff's man."
A peculiar fact bearing upon the statement that Mr. Goff is to blame for the escape of Mrs. Schubert is that Mrs. Schubert stated to a reporter of "The Evening World," who saw her on Wednesday, that Mr. Wellman could ind her at any time; that she went to the hotel with Mr. Wellman's knowledge, and that she would not leave it without notifying him. She expressed gratitude for Mr. Wellman's kindness to her, and added that her husband saw Mr. Wellman every day, either at his office or at his hotel.

As a curious coincidence, the last time Britannia was entered in the regatta of the Royal Dart Yacht Club, on Aug. 25, last year, she was also unable to start on account of the death of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The race to-day is for yachts exceeding 40-rating; the first prize is $250, and the second prize is $100. The course is a triangular one, from Dartmouth Range to the bell buoy off the East Blackstone and back to the starting line; four times around to complete the total distance of forty miles.

Last year Satanita, Navaboe and Callina competed in the race, and Satanita won by Im. 6s.; Navahoe took the second prize and Callina withdrew.

Dartmouth harbor this morning presented a beautiful spectacle. The visiting yachts of the squadron were drawn up in lines, and the water was alive with small craft. At various spots about the hills, which rise 300 to 400 feet about the hills, which rise 300 to 400 feet about the harbor, were gathered parties of picnickers. It is probable, however, that the most interested spectators of the race to-day, were the Royal Naval Cadets of the training ships Britannia and Hindostan, who were given a holiday.
